BY FRANCES STOGDILL

New officers and directors of the McKinney Chamber of Commerce held their first meeting of the fiscal year Tuesday afternoon in the CC offices with 20 directors and visitors present.

President A. H. Eubanks welcomed the large group and commended the committee chairmen for their splendid reports, which showed each group had been active in its assigned duties.

Manager Pat Simpson read minutes of the previous meetings and J. M. Whisenant gave the treasurer's report.

From reports given during the afternoon, the Board was well aware that the Civic Committee has not been idle in recent weeks. Chairman Andrews gave a detailed outline of the activities of his members in spporting the recent school bond election, commending civic and service clubs, social groups, other organizations and individuals who aided the cause.

Chairman Andrews announced three candidates from this area have entered the "Mrs. America" contest. They are Mrs. Roper of near Anna, Mrs. Joe Fisher, of Bloomdale, and Mrs. Henry Cundiff, of Allen.

He concluded his report by describing a recent visit to the city Sewerage Disposal plant in company with members of his committee, city and state engineers, health officers, and others, and it is hoped to have the situation under control soon.

Tom W. Perkins Jr., member of the committee, also made comments to this effect.

Chairman Angel reported that the contract has been let for resurfacing a portion of State Highway 289 in West Collin and that the contract for concrete work on the new Expressway was to be let Wednesday. He outlined progress made thus far on the highway construction, which is being held up at the present time by a delay in delivery of steel, to be used in construction of bridges. He also reported work underway in the Clearlake Park area as well as other Farm-to-Market roads in the county.

A new committee in the CC this year is the Legislative Committee, designed to take under advisement any request "we may have of prevailing upon our representatives, county, state and national—pertaining to laws affecting our community. Also to advise them of various issues in our city and county." Frank W. Smith, J. C. Andrews, Dr. Chas. McKissick and Judge A. M. Wolford are members of this most important committee.

The goal of the membership committee this year is a new member for each old member. The drive will be especially pushed during April, according to Chairman Turrentine. He urged the cooperation of every director and member of the organization in this drive, in an effort to reach the proposed budget of $13,000 for the coming year. In his report he urged the directors to do a "selling job" to the general public and reminded them this is "Our" Chamber of Commerce in which every McKinney citizen should be a part. He also stressed that new members were welcome and invited to any and all Board meetings of the organization.

The Board heartily welcomed the report of the Industrial committee chairman, Boyd Williams, another member who has not been idle in this respect.

The Collin County Fair dates are September 25, through the 29, according to Choice McClure, president. Carnival rides have been secured, while shows and concessions will operated locally. The Collin County Rodeo will also show in conjunction with the Fair this year.

Dwayne Howell, president of the Junior Chamber of Comerce, stated that new officers of his organization would go into office next month at which time members would be assigned to work with the senior organization in committeework.

Dairy Day was announced for May 8 by County Farm Agent Virgil Dahlberg.

Lavon Water Is 'Turned On' Here

McKinneyites received their first taste of Lake Lavon water over the week-end when the water was turned into the city mains. J. R. Bryan, director of Public Works for the city, states that for the next few days, or even weeks, the water will be mixed with our present water from the deep wells. It is in the process of being checked, before we get Lavon water altogether.

McKinney, one of the key cities in the ten-town North Texas Municipal Water District is also one of the last towns in the district to start using Lavon water, due to a delay in arrival of pumps and other necessary equipment. However, the pumps were installed and everything completed the latter part of last week, for its use here. There is quite a difference in the taste of the new water, due mostly to the chemicals used in purifying it.

The water was turned on for a few hours Thursday night, and then was off again due to a leak in one of the lines. However, it was turned on again Friday.

McKinney was one of the few towns in this area which was not suffering from a water shortage, at the present time. However, the now plentiful supply from Lavon will be available for industrial use.

The water is heavily chlorinated for health reasons, but according to Mr. Bryan, the taste will gradually lessen. Mr. Bryan does inform us that the water will also be fine for yards and gardens along with other advantages over the city well water which we have been using.

Several Collin County towns have suffered water shortages in the past but, like McKinney, are now assured a plentiful supply of this necessary commodity.

The ten towns in the district are Garland, Farmersville, Plano, Wylie, Rockwall, Royse City, Forney, Mesquite, Princeton and, McKinney. The district is also selling water to Dallas which is under contract for a minimum of ten million gallons per day.

Connections have not been completed for the water to be used to Princeton and Wylie. Royse City, was scheduled to begin using the water the past week-end.

Commercial Space For Flower Show Available

The garden club members urge all who plan displays to make reservations this week, so that space assignments may be made.

City Receives Over $4,000 From Telephone Co.

City And County Officers Report Arrests Monday

There were 17 prisoners in the County Jail Tuesday morning, according to Deputy Fred Barnes of the Sheriff's Office. The activities of that department included arrest of a "drunk" in Frisco Monday afternoon by Deputies Standerfer and Ramsey.

Deputies Vaughn and Mahan investigated a wreck Monday night near Frisco in which Jerry Don Worley, R-2, Frisco and Althea Carol Lane, of Frisco, drivers of the two cars involved, escaped uninjured. Total damage to the cars was $325.

Sheriff Floyd Williams, accompanied by Constable Hester Lewis, left for Amarillo after two men wanted on charges here. One of the men is charged with swindling by check and the other is wanted for sale of intoxicating liquor.

Chief Euel Ford of the City Police Department reports one sleeper, arrest of one "drunk" and four persons for sale of intoxicating liquors.

Best Insect Repellent Yet For Ticks And Mosquitos

The latest thing in all-purpose insect repellents is diethyl toluamide. Test repellents constaining this chemical display twice as much resistance to normal "wear-off action" as do other types. It will probably be available in several commercial products this spring.

The new repellent can be safely applied to the skin or clothing and will successfully protect the wearer against mosquitoes, chiggers, ticks, fleas, and biting flies, according to the USDA. It offers better protection against mosquitoes generally than any other single chemical or combination of chemicals.

Its high resistance to rubbing means longer-lasting protection for farmers and all outdoorsmen. The new repellent outperforms all others against the stable fly and is as good as any other for deer flies. It is the best repellent so far developed for ticks. In addition, a pleasant lotion "feel" makes it ideal for picnickers and backyard gardeners.

Clothing and other fabrics can be readily treated with diethyl toluamide by saturation then with emulsions or dry-cleaning preparations containing the chemical.

Costal Bermudagrass Good Forage Producer Where Adapted.

Costal Bermudagrass is a top-notch forage producer if properly managed in adapted areas, says Extension Pasture Specialist E. M. Trew. It is now producing good grazing in areas once considered worthless because of salt.

Trew says Costal is a deeper rooted and more drouth tolerant grass than common Bermuda. It also produces more hay and grazing; has larger, longer leaves and stems; usually becomes established quicker; grows more upright; is more disease resistant; utilizes water more efficiently; and grows earlier in the spring and later in the fall.

Coastal, a sterile hybrid, must be started from sprigs or rhizomes and is best adapted East of the Texas 30 inch rainfall belt. Under irrigation it can be grown westward up to the 3000 feet elevation line. While producing well in medium fertility, Coastal possesses exceptional fertilizer-response ability. Don't expect too much on poor soils, however.

A small nursery will provide low cost fresh sprigs which can be used when labor and moisture permit larger plantings.

Three to three and a half foot rows are recommended for Coastal, with spacing between sprigs varying from 12 to 36 inches. A 36-inch spacing will require about 9 bushels of sprigs an acre; 18-inch spacings cal for 15 bushels; and 27 busels an acre are needed for 12-inch spacings. Heavier planting rate means faster cover and less weed competition. Springs may be hand dropped in shallow furrows, packing soil around them with the foot, before covering two inches deep and packing with a tractor wheel. Sprig planters may be used if desired.

Plant sprigs in a clean seedbed, and control weeds until the grass has covered the ground. Don't plant in established sods of common Bermuda, Dallis or other grasses.

Lawn Disease, Brown Patch, Can Be Controlled.

Brown patch is a rather common lawn disease in Texas. Most lawn grasses are susceptible but San Augustine lawns are most often attacked, says Extension Plant Pathologist Harlan Smith.

The disease starts as small spots in the lawn, but the circular brown areas spread rapidly and the grass soon takes on a dead appearance. Infected areas often regain their color following changes in the weather. Brown patch is most prevalent during humid weather on lawns with a dense turf when night temperatures remain 70 degrees F. and above.

To prevent the disease, avoid overwatering at all times. If serious outbreaks of the disease occur, avoid watering during the late evening or at night and apply fungicides. The specialist recommends the use of Tersan, Semsan, Special Semesan, Kromad, Calo-chlor or Actidione. These chemicals should be used in strict accordance with the manufacturer's recommendations, including precautions in handling them.

Brown patch disease is caused by the same fungus which causes serious diseases in cotton, Irish potatoes and many other corps. It lives in most soils regardless of the plants being grown and when conditions become favorable causes the disease outbreaks.

Eggs And Beef Top USDA April Plentiful Foods List.

April has always been known as the noisiest month of the year so far as nature is concerned. Spring induces birds to sing, insects to drone and hens to cackle.

This April there will be an egg to match almost every cackle. The Agricultural Marketing Service says that April egg production is heading for a new high.

So eggs along with beef have earned the top spot on the U. S. Department of Agriculture's April plentiful food list throughout the country.

Record numbers of cattle in feedlots with plenty of grain to fatten them have produced unusually heavy supplies of quality beef—U. S. Prime, Choice and Good.

Two other meats—lamb and turkey—are also in heavier supply than they normally are in the spring.

Most plentiful vetgetables in the area include Irish potatoes, canned sweet corn and canned beets.

Only fruits on the USDA plentiful list are canned purple plums and dried prunes. Rice, peanuts, peanut butter, milk and other dairy products complete the April plentiful foods list.

Farm and home accidents can be reduced when farm people include in their everyday living a safety consciousness that becomes a part of every job whether on the farm or ranch or in the home. "Make safety your business," advises the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council, "then live to enjoy it."

NEWS FROM THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS —of— THE COLLIN CO. SOIL CONSERVATION DIST.

Good pasture is almost essential in this area for profitable beef and milk production.

The above products are becoming more important as sources of income for farmers in the Collin Soil Consevation District each year. "Since pastures are the foundation of an important source of income, I feel that most of them are due better treatment than they have been receiving during recent years," stated J. M. Norton work unit conservationist at McKinney.

Dry weather, grasshoppers and overgrazing have our pastures in an extremely weakened condition. Ordinarily, a grass will produce enough top growth within 10 to 15 days after it puts out in the spring to make it grow productively. In its weakened condition, it will likely take 30 to 60 days to make the necessary growth for a normal plant factory. Livestock should be held off the pastures so they can develop the required top growth as rapidly as possible. This may necessitate grazing small grain as late as possible and sowing sweet clovers and Sudan grass for supplemental grazing on up in the summer.

Many pactures should be deferred or grazed lightly ail during the coming season so the grass can develop into a vigorous stand, and provide litter over the ground which is needed to get the soil to absorb and hold the moisture that falls. Experiments show that two and one-half times as much water is soaked up by a pasture that has litter as it soaked up by one without litter.

Along with deferment, chiseling, fertilization, and overseeding will be needed on some pastures. Your Soil Conservation Service technicians will be glad to discuss the above pasture renovation operations with you.

Now is the time to make plans for establishment of new pastures. Native or Coastal Bermudagrass should be soded as soon as possible and the seedbeds should be put in final shape for seeding King Ranch and native bluestems or other perennial summer growing grasses. Bluestem grasses usually do best when seeded in late March or April in this area. Sideoats grama is another native grass which is drouth resistant and has proven well adapted in our area. It should be planted during March or April.

Easter Seals Campaign Aids Handicapped

In America, the privilege of doing something voluntarily for others is cherished as an individual freedom. The satisfactions which come through meeting a need are among the richest rewards we know.

For many years, the Collin County Society for Crippled Children, which sponsors the annual Easter Seal campaign, has provided opportunity and reward for both handicapped and non-handicapped citizens. Those of us who are able-bodied have had the privilege of seeing our crippled neighbors reach new heights of independence. And our gifts of money have made us richer in spirit.

As science advances, bringing new hope for the handicapped, let us continue to meet the need. Let us give to whom our consciences dictate — to those we want to help and know we help. Let our hearts go to our heads. By giving to Easter Seals, we can't go wrong.

The society is aided this year by the Business and Professional Women's Club of McKinney, which placed the Easter Seals in envelopes and mailed them to the general citizenship. This was a club project of community service.

Mrs. Julia Walters, chairman of the Collin County Society for Crippled Children, is assisted by the following Easter Seal Committee in this year's campaign:

Dr. J. C. Erwin, McKinney, first vice chairman.

Mrs. Eurilla Wiliams, Plano, second vice chairman.

A. H. Eubanks Jr., McKinney, treasurer.

Mrs. Alice Talkington, McKinney, director of publicity.

Jack Scott, Frisco.

Collin Man Named Soil Conservationist

Lon F. Gaddy, of Farmersville, was honored this week for the outstanding job of soil conservation which he has applied to his farm East of that town. The Lions Club of McKinney will present to him a plaque in recognition of his work.

Mr. Gaddy was selected as the outstanding farmer in the Collin Soil Conservation District for 1956. He was chosen by the Collin Board of Supervisors from the 1800 farmers cooperating with the district. John Wells of Plano, Chairman of the District Board, made the presentation.

Although Gaddy started cooperating with the district on his 94 acre farm just 27 months ago, he completed 90 percent of his conservation work. He first shaped and sodded three waterways to Bermuda grass. When these had adequate cover, he terraced his entire cropland with 3.5 miles of broad based terraces, and then started farming on the contour.

In addition to the mechanical practices, he has followed a good vegetative program of treating his land by growing both deep and shallow rooted legumes in a rotation with other crops. He keeps his crop residues on or near the surface of the soil to help protect and condition the land. He has grown guar, winter peas, sweetclovers, and soya beans on this farm to improve the tilth and condition of the soil.

"The conservation treatment not only improved the looks of this farm it made it farm a lot easier," commented Gaddy. "Much of the farm was in Johnson grass meadow and some was just idle land when I bought it. Since it is cleaned up and I am using conservation treatment it takes much less tractor fuel to farm it then it did before treatment," he added.

East Christians Plan Funds To Pay Off Building Debt

The East Christian Church is using the "30 pieces of silver" plan as a means of raising funds to pay off the church building debt.

Each member of the church has been sent a personal letter and small plastic bag. Beginning March 21, and through Easter Sunday, each member is to drop a piece of silver, of 10 cents or more, into the bag every day. On Easter Sunday morning the money will be brought to the church and in turn will be turned over to the building committee to be used in liquidating the building debt.

Tribute Paid Dr. R. E. Morrow At "Doctor's Day" Dinner Here

(Editor's Note—The following tribute to Dr. R. E. Morrow, was paid at the Doctor's Day meeting held Monday night at Johnny's Cafe at which time Dr. Morrow was the honor guest. Tom W. Perkins Jr., chairman of the Board of Governor's of the City-County Hospital, read the tribute at the dinner meeting.)

"I am delighted to be a part in tonight's wonderful gathering to honor Dr. Rufus Ethel Morrow. Dr. Morrow was born June 6, 1877. He received his license February 11, 1901. Dr. Morrow finished college at Memphis Hospital Medical College, April 30, 1904. On July 8, 1906, he married a wonderful sweet Christian lady, Ida Maye Campbell. To this union was born 2 boys and 1 girl. One son passed away June 22, 1922. He has two children now living. Mrs. Venita McMillan of Jasper, Texas and Dallas C. Morrow of Milan, Italy. His sweet wife passed away March 13, 1938.

Dr. Morrow retired in 1951.

In addition to the foregoing biographical sketch of Dr. Rufus Ethel Morrow, I feel constrained to add the following:

After the completion of his medical studies, he decided to locate among the people where he and his ancestry had lived for many years, that is Blythes-Chapel, Winningcoff School, Lucas, Forest Grove, and the territory immediately surrounding.

This was especially a rural and agriculture community without the modern conveniences of electricity, gas, telephone or good roads.

He chose this as the location for his medical practice rather than the cities or the larger towns.

He was intensively religious, a devoted church man, in perfect harmony with his neighobrs and no doubt felt that he was the guardian of the health of the people and gradually came to be a leader in church, education and farming activities.

He lived with, among and for the people with whom he was associated.

He no doubt had read the scriptures of the Great Physician, the man of Galilee who came as he said, "To minister and not to be ministered to."

No doubt he had read where the inspired writer had said of the Master Jesus, that "He went about doing good."

He could not make the blind to see, but he could postpone the day when blindness came.

He could not raise the dead but he could no doubt delay for years the time when his friends, neighbors, patients had to leave this world.

He could not practice his profession and demand cash in advance.

He went where ever the sick and diseased called him without any guarantee of payment for his time.

Day or night, sunshine or storm, heat or cold, he went to the aid of those in distress not knowing when, how or how much would be his reward.

He believed in the love of God and he also believed that such be manifested by love of mankind.

He did not lay up treasures on earth, but every day and night of his life he laid up treasures in heaven where moth and rust do not corrupt nor thieves break through and steal.

He put service above self.

He drew freely on his only financial reserves.

He used insparingly his physical strength and nervous energy and no doubt his tense work, labor for the public without immediate material reward, was an undue strain on his own physical strength and nervous energy.

He never failed to answer the call of the distress whether the road was muddy or dusty, whether through storm or sunshine, whether convenient or inconvenient he felt that it was his duty to go to those who really needed him.

Many children came into this world through his skill and ability and devotion to the bedsides in the home rather than in the hospital.

Whenever he was called he went to where the expectant mother was about to go through the valley of the shadow of death that a child might be born.

There is no doubt that he had in his mind and in his heart, when the end comes to him, he could say, "I have fought a good fight, I have kept the faith, henceforth there will be a reward for me."

Someday perhaps some one will write about the doctors and physicians who most nearly performed their duty to the full extent and who made the most sacrifices for the least reward and in doing so this future historian will write no name higher or in more radiant letters than the name of Dr. Rufus Ethel Morrow, who this evening we are delighted to honor.

Like all other physicians, unnumbered people owe him today and will never pay, but he has no resentment or bitterness against them and if he should collect all that is owed him, he would have thousands upon thousands of dollars.

He was glad to perform these services free and he had no bitterness or resentment against those he helped and like one of the great poets it can be truely said "That the elements of nature were so mixed up in him that all his neighbors and acquaintances could stand up and say, "He was a Man."

He had the virtue of frankness, candor and had himself correctly appraised and when he found that his patients troubles were beyond his ability he was not ashamed to advise the sick patients that he should seek physicians of larger experience and better equipment.

All honor to this good man who has spent his life in unselfish services and sacrifice for the good of his friends and neighbors.

UNIONS OPEN TO QUALIFIED WORKERS

To belong to a union any person has to be qualified as a workman in his field. To join, all he has to do is pay an initiation feel and pay his dues, just as a bar requires one to do. You can't practice law in Texas before the courts if you don't belong to the Bar Association. If that is not a closed shop, what is it?

Anyone who has the ability can join a union if he wants to. It's the free riders who don't want to belong. They want the union wages, but don't want to help pay the dues it takes to keep the wages up.

THE PEOPLE

We have gone on record, two to one, in favoring the erection of three new school buildings. Though I thought it best to finance and build these one at a time, I now make the wishes of the majority of the tax payers of the district my wishes and will go along and support the program to the best of my ability. I abandon, of course, my own plans and if named as one of your trustees will work in harmony with the other school-board members, in order to make the McKinney Independent School District a model for the rest of the state.

Fine buildings alone do not make fine schools, and as I have long entertained views which I believe we should include in the curriculum of our schools, I shall give them here.

1. Teach physical science as early as the third grade, and biological science in the sixth grade. Then, at the age of about ten years, single out the mentally-superior children and give them training commensurate with their ability. We are falling behind the rest of the world in producing scientists and as we seem to be on the threshold of a world in which only a scientific people can survive, shove the mentally-superior children through and let them graduate as far ahead of their class as possible.

2. More vocational training and less emphasis on recreation. Not half of our high-school graduates go to college, or even want to go. Train them in vocations they can make use of on graduating; finance, mechanics and industries.

3. Allow parents and teachers to agree as to what elective studies a pupil should take. We have too many elective studies that are too easy, leading the pupil to select those that are pleasant and easy, and tending to repress the power of thought.

And finally, we have a big task ahead of us; one in which everyperson in the school district should take part. Our aim is to have better schools, but this is not all. The stone and the brick to make the buildings we can buy, but the caliber of the youthful intellect that emerges from them can only be assured by the concerted, conscientious efforts of all of us.

New Sponsor Of Awards Named In 4-H Foods Program

The new donor of awards in the national 4-H food preparation program is Betty Crocker of General Mills, Minneapolis, Minn., according to an announcement made by G. L. Noble, director of the National Commitee on Boys and Girls Club Work, at Chicago. Last year more than 600,000 members of the 4-H Clubs between the ages of 10 and 21 years enrolled in the project. They prepared and served approximately 37 million different dishes and meals, Mr. Noble reported.

Six $400 college scholarships will be offered to the 1957 national winners who will be announced by the Cooperative Extension Service during the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago next fall. State champions will be awarded an all-expense trip to the Congress. In addition, it is estimated that about 10,000 county medals of honor will be pinned on deserving 4-H members in 2500 counties participating in the food preparation project.

The purpose of the program is to develop leadership as well as skill in preparing and serving meals, and to acquire proper eating habits as a prerequisite of good health. The youthful cooks "learn by doing" which is the 4-H way. Along with meal planning, they are taught to buy food wisely, and to utilize home grown products as well.

Red Cross Makes Preparations For Future Disasters

The Red Cross chapters in Texas are getting their disaster preparedness plans perfected knowing full well what the months of April, May and June have brought to Texas in the way of disaster in the past.

Twenty seven chapters in Texas have completed full scale training plans to develop and train all of their disaster personnel. About this same number of chapters do this intensive training each year. There is continuous work in all chapters to keep their disaster personnel at full strength in order to do the job if disaster strikes.

There are two phases in every disaster operation. The emergency phase when Red Cross must see that the victims and rescues workers have food, that the victims have shelter, clothing and medical care. The second phase or rehabilitation is one that is expensive and without glamour or excitement. Rehabilitation involves rebuilding and repair of homes, medical and nursing aid, supplies, household furnishings. This work is done on the basis of need, not loss. All expenditures of Red Cross in disaster is a gift of the American people — it is never repaid. At this moment Red Cross has a large operation in Kentucky, Virginia, and West Virginia, involving 15,000 families with a Red Cross Commitment of 4 million dolars.

In Texas the American Red Cross has stationed at strategic places 12 Red Cross Field Representatives to assist chapters if disaster should strike. These representatives are mobile and subject to call where needed. Two of our Texas Representatives, J. B. Green of Paris, Texas and Tom Wagner of Marlin, Texas are on assignment in Kentucky.

Red Cross experienced the most expensive disaster operation in its 76 year history in 1956. In excess of $33 million was spent in the United States last year. Texas was lucky in 1956, it had only 21 disasters affecting 25 counties. 539 families received individual assistance from Red Cross. 61 people were killed or injured. 10,552 buildings were damaged or destroyed. Total assistance from Red Cross was $62,000. Red Cross receives all of its funds for disaster work from voluntary contributions.

Miss Miller Is Guest Speaker At Lions Club

Miss Mary L. Miller, chief dietitian at the Veterans Hospital in McKinney, was presented at guest speaker at the Lions Club luncheon-program held Wednesday at the First Methodist Church.

Lions A. H. Bradford and Bob Bryan were the program committee for the day, the former presiding as chairman.

Lion Bradford stated that Miss Miller came to the local VA Hospital in August, 1955, from Poplar Bluff, Mo., reviewing her education, for her position as registered dietitian. At the local institution Miss Miller is head of a department of 80 personnel which provides special diets for some 450 patients daily.

The speaker opened her remarks by urging parents to interest their children in the opportunities offered in the field of diet, and then outlined the functions of her work here.

"Good food is good medicine" she remarked, and told how all departments of the hospital must work together to achieve this.

She described the work of each member of her department, and read sample menus prepared for the patients in the various divisions. In the TB wards, menus are presented to each patient from which he selects his foods. Persons on the critical sick list also have a choice of special foods.

The club was surprised to learn of the huge amounts of foods used daily by the local institution and the relatively low cost per person. Interest was added to Miss Miller's program as various members asked questions concerning phases of her work in the preparation and serving of food as well as in planning and buying the various commodities.

Other guests for the day were Sam Marshall, guest of Lion W. G. Proctor; Walter Massie, guest of Lion Homer Dugger; Lewis Baldwin, guest of Lion Leroy Richardson; Tom Howard of Dallas, guest of Lion Raul Saba.

President Pat Simpson appointed Lions Worley Smith, R. F. Newsome and Paul Hardin to arrange for presentation of the soil conservation plaque to a Collin farmer, at an early date.

Davidson On Honor Roll At Nacogdoches

S. W. McKewen, Stephen F. Austin State College Registrar at Nacogdoches, has announced that Owen Davidson, of McKinney, has made the honor roll for the Fall Semester, 1956.

IN APPRECIATION

In the past few years the people of McKiney have honored me by electing me as one of their City Commissioners. Serving in this capacity has been a privilege and a blesing for me, because during these years I have had an opportunity to make hosts of new friends, and in many cases, advise with them on their various problems.

I feel that the people have been good to me in their support and the influence they manifest in the city elections. I have enjoyed my work on the City Commission, even though many problems have come before us through the years, and I greatly appreciate my association with the other men who have served with me. But most of all A appreciate the citizens of McKinney and their kindliness toward me in the past.

I will not be a candidate for re-election this year but urge that the new City Commission, when elected April 2, will receive the same fine support and cooperation that was tendered to me while I was on the Commission.

Very sincerely,
GEORGE W. JAMES
